JENNA RITCHEY

Jenna Ritchey is currently a student at Anderson University studying Musical Theatre, Commercial Music, and Dance. She is an R&B pop singer originally from Clarkston, Michigan where she was in an a cappella group called Detroit Voice who sang Motown music. She is currently in a band at Anderson University which is a group made up of highly trained musicians with talents diverse yet complementary. In this band, she is known for her stage presents and ability to find harmony in the music. She is currently a lead vocalist in the band. Jenna is excited to start working on her own music as a solo artist.
